DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mayer, U.S. Patent No. 5,470,319.

In figures 9 and 10 above, the cited patent discloses a connector body having a tubular portion (84) extending therefrom; and a valve body including a valve element (124) with a passage (147) therethrough, the valve body being axially movable with respect to the connector body; wherein the valve body is movable from a closed position in which said tubular portion (84) of the connector body is exterior to the passage (147) of the valve element to an open position in which the tubular portion (84) of the connector body is applied against the valve element (124) to at least partially open the valve element.

Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Challenger, et al., U.S. Patent No. 5,492,147.

In figures 2 and 3 above, the cited patent discloses a connector body having a tubular portion (29) extending therefrom; and a valve body including a valve element (72) with a passage (74) therethrough, the valve body being axially movable with respect to the connector body; wherein the valve body is movable from a closed position in which said tubular portion (29) of the connector body is exterior to the passage (74) of the valve element to an open position in which the tubular portion (29) of the connector body is applied against the valve element (72) to at least partially open the valve element.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-4, 7-12, and 16-19 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Challender, et al., in view of Mayer. The Challender, et al. Patent does not disclose a connector body configured as a Y-shape connector. However, the design of Y-shape valve connectors is conventional as evidenced by the teachings of Mayer. The Mayer Patent demonstrates in figure 6 (below) that enhancing a valve-connector design with an additional Y-connector is conventional in the art.

Art Unit: 3763

Based on the conventionality of Y-connector designs, it would have been obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art to enhance the Challenger, et al. connector structure with the addition of a Y-connector. Accordingly, such modification would have been considered an obvious design alternative.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the pending claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
